what familiar with the facts. About a month ago a split occurred in the congregation of the First Baptist church and Mr. Hall, the pastor, and a number of his friends and sup-porters seceeded and established the Central Baptist church. Later Mr. Hall porters seceeded and established the Central Baptist church. Later Mr. Hall sued the old church organization for the salary which he claimed was due him. On the other hand a letter of release from the church was asked for and denied, it appears, and this is what brought on the necessity for a council meeting. Of course the church could not deny him a letter without some charges being made and he was charged with using unbecoming language in the pulpit. In other words he is alleged to have applied unbecoming epithets to the section of the congregation who opposed his policy and whose management of the affairs of the church did not suit him.

The meeting of the council yesterday was quite lively at times and especially when Mr. Hall made a hot speech in his own defense. There is considerable feeling on both sides and the council finds the case a very tender and delicate one and they are treating it as such. There is no charge whatever against Mr. Hall's moral character or his theological views the only thing worms being his diction.

Dr. Thomas, one of the members of the court, was seen at the Manhattan hotel late last night and he stated that the council had reached no agreement at that time. He was there writing out "findings" to present to the council but was unable to say whether they would approve of them or not. He thought it very likely that the council would remain in session the greater part of the night. He said that the case was the most delicate one he ever participated in. The council will render judgment but will iry and do it in such a manner that no soreness will be left on either side or as little as possible.

This is what Major Cole calls the pres ent religious work in Wichita. Last night he spoke upon the para-ble of the Good Samaritan. The priest and the Levite who passed by the wounded man showed what a man will do having a creed in his head but not having Christ in his heart. Jesus Christ is the great Samaritan who helps those who have been robbed.

The following comunication is from the gentleman who married Miss Isis Blanche Martin recently.

Mr. Editor—As there seems to be a great deal of interest manifested concerning the particular form of chronological data used by me on my wedding invitations, I wish you would grant me space in your paper to make an explanation thereof and thus avoid the constant inquiries that are being made about it. Since the publication, the about it. Since the publication, the comments, etc., that appeared in the Daily Eagle, many of your readers have shown an unusual interest as to Tom Ballard, a hack driver, was driving west on East Douglas avenue when the trolley wire near the Santa Fe depot broke and fell on his head, knocking him from his seat. He was not seriously hurt and is all right now.

Only derision is excited by the claims of a New York Baking Powder company to a World's fair award. Nobody got an award "over" it because did not compete. But Dr. Price's received the highest award for purity, strength and wholesomeness.

erally supposed and consequently could not have murdered the Bethlehemitish children.

Christian clergymen had quite frequently taunted Freethinkers that they were compelled to admit and recognize the truth of Christianity, whenever they undertook to write a lettr home or date any legal document. Recognizing the inaccuracies that existed in our present system, and with a further view of avoiding the taunts of the clergy, a lawyer of New York City. Thaddeus B. Wakeman, introduced a new system about ten yes ago, which commences with the year 1600 of the Christian era. In that year the burning of Glordane Bruno took place in Rome, and as his life was given as a sacrifice to the rights of free speech, free thought, and freedom of the expression of free thought, and this taking place with several other events of a similar character about the same time. Mr. Wakeman regarded the period as the first returning light from the dark ages, a new era had set in, an era of human freedom, an era of man, instead of religious tyranny. This is the meaning of the letters E. M.—Era of Man.

How their gleeful shouts rang out upon the snowy air. And now what "heaps of sewing" these little embryo mothers will have to do for their dolles—such picturesque costumes as their little busy fingers will fashion, will lay Worth entirely in the shade.

But I must not forget the dinner which consisted of a great, fat, juicy turkey generously provided by W. L. Balley, with all its delicious accompaniments of dressing, brown gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, paniments of dressing, brown gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, pickles, slaw with ice cream, oranges and nuts, and unlike poor little Oliver Twist, they allate all they could, which however, was nothing new, as the children have all they want to eat three times a day. And now while the winter winds are howling drearly around this hill, and the snow lying deep and heavy, the little ones are safely housed within this home cracking nuts and playing with their dolls, with a big roaring fire in the furnace. In behalf of these homeless waifs I want to thank everyone who in any way has contributed to their happiness during the happy holiday just past, and especially the Eagle for its timely hint to Santa Claus.

THAT ITALIAN CLIMATE. The Mercury Only Went Hown Ten Below Zer-Yesterday.

Yesterday was the coldest December day at this point in the history of the local weather bureau. At 7 o'clock in the morning the mercury stood ten degrees below zero, more than nine and a half degrees lower than it was the previous day. Unofficial thermemeters registered as high as fourteen degrees below zero. The coldest day ever known here, with this exception, was that terrible day on the 19th of January, 1822, when the mercury went down to fourteen below zero at the signal office and seventeen below by unofficial thermometers.

The father, General Stanbope, has set his heart upon his discovering the bent of his son's inclination, and his refusal to acced to his wishes, orders him from the hotel where they are staying. Deof his son's inclination, and his refusal to acced to his wishes, orders him from the hotel where they are staying. Determined to be near the object of his affections, Kate Armitage, Tom determines to disguise himself and return incog. He had on his way picked up a photograph, and it strikes him that it would be an easy matter to take pattern from that. The photograph happens to be that of Dick Winters, one of a pair of twin brothers who bear a remarkable resemblence to each other. Dick has been contined in a private sanitarium tobe cured of some mental trouble, and has just been discharged, and is on his way to join bits wife and two children, who are stopping at the hotel. Harry, his brother, who has been abroad, is also on his way to the house to see his flancee. Tom arrives first, introduces himself to his father as the son of an old friend, and claims to have fallen in love with Kate. The general is delighted to hear this, and resolves to do everything in his power to further his suit, believing that if he can only get Kate out of the way Tom will marry his ward. Tom reveals his identity to Kate and the general is just chucking over the success of his plan wher Mrs. Winters enters with the children and promptly claims Tom as her husband, who she is expecting. BREATHING DEEPLY.

An Exercise Easy to Perform and of Un doubted Value.

With the preliminary but important matter of clothing satisfactorily settled we are ready to breathe. If very weak, ile down on an easy couch—lie flat on the back. See that the air is fresh, but avoid a draft. Draw in a long, slow breath, letting the disphragm and abdomen expand as fully as possible. Then by a contraction of the disphragm, a quick drawing in of the muscles of the atomach. force the air into the upper part of the lungs and hold it there a moment or two before allowing it to pass up into the throat. This is done by a contraction of the votal cords and is not usually difficult. But if the cords will not close and the air is not readily controlled close the line and hold the nose for a moment, which will prevent the air from all leaving the aper of the lungs. With practice the vocal cords will come under perfect control.

Some have difficulty in establishing the abdominal breathing, especially those who have been in the habit of breathing who have been in the habit of breathing entirely from the throat. But when the clothing no longer forms an obstruction this will gradually right itself. The natural mode of breathing asserts itself most readily when one is lying down; therefore that position is re-emmended for the daily practice, which should be persistent, but also very gentle. Do not allow yourself to become really fatigued and be careful not to make the lungs ache. If one deep breath brings weariness or distinces, stop with the one breath, but try again when with the one breath, but try again when fully rested. The upper part of the chest will gradually expand and in time will round out beautifully.

The careful practice of deep breathing will bring new vitality to any organ not incurable discussed. It will arrich the
